Dear parent,

Air pollution is a big problem in Delhi. Air knows no boundaries. Various studies have shown that a part of Delhi's pollution is due to neighbouring states. We keep requesting Central Government for coordination with other states.

However, we must do whatever is within our domain. No effort to reduce air pollution will succeed without active participation of people. Success of ambitious Odd-Even plan indicates that if the government and the public work together, we can achieve wonderful results.

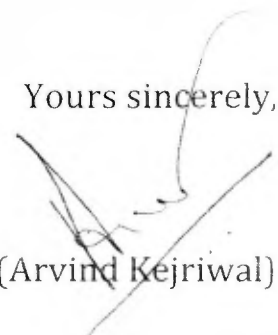

Your government is planning an ambitious tree plantation drive on Saturday, the 8th September. All citizens, including students, are being encouraged to participate in this exercise. We hope to plant more than 5 lakh saplings at 600 sites. The saplings will be geo-tagged and monitored to ensure that they survive post plantation.

I am writing this to request you and your children to actively participate in this drive. Your school has made arrangements for transport from school to the site of tree plantation and back for students and their parents.

Delhi is our home. It is the capital of India. It is India's pride. Lets all work together to make it a green, beautiful and modern city.

With warm regards,

Yours sincerely,

(Arvind Kejriwal)
